O. , Supt. of Docs. , Congressional Sales Office, 1998. LC Number: KF27 . W344 1998a OCLC Number: ocm39947208 Subject: Medical records -- Access control -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 12 Preemption Perhaps the most difficult conflict identified during our hearings is over preemption of state laws. Among large segments of the health industry, a major benefit to federal legislation is a high degree of regulatory uniformity throughout the country. The interstate nature of health care treatment and payment activities is readily apparent. By one estimate, approximately half of the U. S. population lives near the border of another state. To have a patient work in the District of Columbia, reside in Maryland, and receive care in Virginia creates a nightmare for the health care system to track unless substantial uniformity of policies and procedures exists. It will be difficult for many involved in electronic transfers of health data to accept any proposal that does not offer significant relief from the prospect of 50 different state laws establishing separate rules. On the other hand, it would be difficult for many patient groups, privacy advocates and perhaps some provider groups to accept any proposal that does not allow states to adopt stronger privacy protections as specified in the HIPAA. People disagree whether existing state laws offer greater protection than most of the current federal proposals. There is strong support in some communities for a solid federal confidentiality standard that allows states to erect stronger privacy barriers. This was the approach that Secretary Shalala recommended last September. The Committee suggests, however, that this issue need not be treated as...
